Rt. 45 Re-location To Commence Soon

The beginning construction of the re-location and improvement of two miles of Rt. 45 in the Egleston's Glen section of the Lisbon Road will begin as early as February.

William Quicksall, state highway

Department Division 11 engineer at New Philadelphia, announced today that sealed bids for the purchase and removal of properties on the highway right-of-way on the re-location route will be received by the highway department until Jan. 10.

Contrary to an earlier report that progress on the proposed re-location was at a standstill, Quicksall said that plans for the new limited access road have been completed and as soon as the necessary funds are available, construction will begin.

"We hope to have the necessary funds to go ahead with the re-location late in January. If not in January, then the latest beginning date will be early in February," Quicksall said.

Local Groups Back Project

In an attempt to further progress on the re-location project, State Representative Clarence Wetzel was urged at a joint meeting last week with the Chamber of Commerce board of directors, five Lisbon businessmen and a group of property owners in the Rt. 45 area to contact highway

Hoffa Case Retrial Scheduled Jan. 6

NEW YORK — The government said today it has ordered the James R. Hoffa wiretap conspiracy case restored to the U. S. District Court calendar for retrial Jan. 6. The first trial ended Friday in a jury deadlock.

Hoffa, president-elect of the Teamster Union, and two co-defendants were accused of wiretapping Teamsters offices in Detroit to eavesdrop on subordinates who might have been called to testify before investigating groups.

4 Navy Plane Crewmen Saved

23 On Craft Which Ditched In Pacific

HONOLULU — Four survivors from the 23-man crew of a Navy Super Constellation radar plane that was ditched off Oahu Island were rescued today.

Search vessels probing the turbulent sea recovered two bodies. The search for additional survivors intensified at daybreak.

An armada of surface craft and rescue planes raced to the area after the giant plane went down 25 miles north of Oahu Monday night.

The survivors, who were wearing life preservers but were not in a raft, said their giant four-engine plane ditched in rough seas, the Navy said.

Conditions of the survivors, details of the ditching and the reason for it were not immediately available.

While Navy, Air Force and Coast Guard planes searched the blackness, destroyers, cutters and merchant ships converged on the area. Visibility was six miles and waves about six feet high.

Twenty-one men had first been reported aboard the ill-fated aircraft. That was later changed to 24—6 officers and 18 enlisted men.

Early today, however, the Navy said that one of the men thought aboard turned up in downtown Honolulu. He was identified as Richard D. Varner, who was on liberty Monday and therefore excused from the routine training flight scheduled.

The Navy said helicopters would join the search for the other survivors at daybreak.

Early in the search an Air Force plane reported making radio contact with a life raft and a coast guard plane said it sighted flares and a raft. Those reports were not confirmed and a Navy spokesman said they were being disregarded.

Survivors, when picked up, said they signaled a search plane with a flashlight.

The Navy spokesman said names of those aboard the patrol craft probably would be released later today.

The missing plane was attached to an aircraft early warning wing based at Barbers Point on Oahu, the Hawaiian island on which Honolulu stands.

This disaster was the first for

Ike Challenges Reds To Prove Peace Aims

Russia's Call for Special UN Session Spurned by Dulles

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower laid to Moscow Monday night responsibility for making the next great move to "reduce world tensions" and open the path to disarmament and peace.

In familiar, time-tested terms, he said that all that is needed to bring about a definite start toward universal security and peace is a spirit of conciliation on both sides and "clear evidence of Communist integrity and sincerity in negotiations and in action."

"For no nation, for no individual among us," he said, "could there be a finer Christmas present, nor a better New Year."

Deeds-Not-Words Challenge

Eisenhower threw his deeds-not-words challenge to the Kremlin, as he has many times in the past, in a radio-television report to America on last week's NATO Council meeting in Paris. Secretary of State Dulles joined in Dulles, in fact, provided the bulk of the report, with Eisenhower nodding or occasionally voicing agreement.

As Eisenhower offered tacit approval, Dulles all but spurned Russia's call of last Saturday for "a special session of the United Nations or an international conference" to deal with the tough, elusive disarmament issue. Dulles said that "of course, 82 nations obviously can't be a negotiating body."

The Russian bid followed Soviet rejection of NATO's proposal for a renewal of disarmament dickerings by the foreign ministers of Eastern and Western powers.

Now the United States has put the next move up to Russia, along with a clear implication that the Soviets must expect to give as well as get at any conference table.

One high administration official said the door has been left wide

Strong Winds Halt Vanguard Test

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. — Strong winds whipped the Missile Test Center today, making unlikely an immediate attempt to launch a satellite bearing Vanguard rocket.

The Navy Monday started observers who had expected to action through the holidays by running a test firing of one of the three-stage Vanguard's engines. Perhaps by design, the test came on a day when rain cut visibility sharply.

Watchers on the beach several miles from the test center saw nothing. Security restrictions have been tightened sharply since the Navy's failed Dec. 6 in its wide-bracketed attempt to use the Vanguard to send an American satellite into orbit.

Monday's firing was conducted with the rocket engine tied down—a so-called static test. Such tests always precede a rocket launch but can take place a long time before an actual blast-off.

Pennsylvania City Hit by Fire

Damages Estimated At Over $1 Million

RANKIN, Pa. — Persons of suburban Rankin face a bleak Christmas in the wake of a fire which struck a huge area in the community of 6,700 about eight miles east of mid-town Pittsburgh.

Monday's blaze caused damage which Fire Chief Jack Blazines said will top one million dollars.

Two persons, one a woman whose home was damaged, and the other an auxiliary policeman on emergency duty, died of heart attacks.

Christmas trees and presents went up in smoke as the wind for nearly four hours after the whiplike fire roared out of control first alarm.

When the fire had run its course 14 homes and one school had been destroyed. Eight other homes and two other schools were damaged.

Police are investigating a report that several boys were playing in the empty house where the fire started. By the time the blaze was discovered it was an inferno. The fire played hop, skip and jump and some homes apparently in the direct path of the flames escaped.

The Red Cross and the Salvation Army sent mobile units to the scene.

At the height of the blaze more than 200 firemen from nearly 40 departments were battling the flames. So were six companies of the Pittsburgh Fire Department and Pittsburgh's only fireboat, the C. D. Scully, which pumped water from the Monongahela River nearly one mile from the fire.

Four firemen suffered minor injuries.

More than a score of firemen stayed on duty throughout the night. Auxiliary policemen patrolled the area to prevent looting.

3 County School Districts Merged

State Education Board To Get Elkrun Petition

LISBON — Columbiana County School Board voted at a special meeting Monday night to send the Elkrun school transfer petition to Columbus after Common Pleas Judge Joel H. Sharp ruled Friday that the petition bore the required names of 75 per cent of the voters in the last election.

The 9.5 square miles of territory affected lies on the western edge of Elkrun Township and abuts the eastern part of Center Township which is in the Lisbon exempted village school district for final decision, as provided by law, or appear in court and give reason for not complying.

At to Nov. 26 special meeting, the county board refused the Elkrun petition, claiming it didn't have the required number of signatures.

W. H. McMullen, one of the petitioners, then filed a mandamus action to require the board to forward the petition to the State Board of Education for final decision, as provided by law, or appear in court and give reason for not complying.

As a result, Judge Sharp ruled that two disputed signatures were valid, giving the petitioners the required 75 per cent.

The board also voted to merge Salineville, Yellow Creek and all of Wayne District into one school district, rescinding the action taken Dec. 17. Approving the merger were Ben Weingart, Emory Holloman and W. H. McMullen.

West Local wishes to merge with the Minerva school district which is in Stark County. West's high school children are now attending Minerva High School and most of the people go to Minerva to shop.

The Fairfield districts seeking transfer are the Swope area requesting transfers of sections 5 and 6 in northwestern Fairfield Township (Fairfield-Waterford district) to Columbiana, and the Gray area, asking transfer of section 6 and parts of 5, 7 and 8 in the Fairfield Township to Leetonia village schools. These petitions override each other, and both include the new Kaiser Aluminum Co. plant between Columbiana and Leetonia.

Minerva Man, Woman Victims Of Collision

Patrol Blames Speed For Three-Vehicle Mishap On Curve

Two Minerva residents were killed and two others injured when their car went out of control, sideswiped one truck and hit another truck head-on at 2:30 p.m. Monday on Rt. 30, one and one-half miles east of Minerva.

Killed were: Mrs. Irene Kiko, 20, who had a fractured skull, multiple lacerations and multiple internal injuries. She was an expectant mother.

Laverne Kiko, 22, driver of the car, died of a concussion, ruptured bladder, and multiple internal injuries.

The injured persons taken to Alliance City Hospital are:

Raymond Kiko, 23, husband of Irene, is listed in fair condition with a fractured left leg; shock, and multiple leg lacerations and abrasions.

Shirley Kiko, 19, sister of the driver, in fair condition with a fractured right shoulder, concussion, and multiple abrasions.

Glenn Huggins, 30, of Lancaster, driver of truck which was hit head-on, was treated and released for minor cuts and bruises.

Loses Control of Car

State patrolmen said the accident occurred when Laverne Kiko, driving his car at a high rate of speed and traveling east, lost control and skidded into a truck driven by Dean Moore, 32, of East Canton, which was going west.

The impact spun the Kiko car into the Huggins' truck which was following close behind Moore.

The driver of the passenger car and his wife were thrown onto the road when the car finally skidded to a stop more than 100 feet from where the first collision occurred. Moore was uninjured.

Irene Kiko, who was seven months pregnant, was pronounced dead on arrival at the Alliance hospital.

Laverne Kiko, the driver, never regained consciousness and he died at 6:45 p.m., less than four hours after he was admitted.

One highway patrolman estimated the speed of the Kiko car at about 65-miles-an-hour.

The 1956 model car was molish.

'Muggs' and Jimmy Reunited For Christmas

"Muggs" is home for Christmas. The 14-year-old setter-springer belonging to eight-year-old Jimmy Carman of 173 W. Wilson St. was returned to his happy master last night by R. J. Reichenbach, Columbiana County dog warden.

"Muggs" who ran away from home Dec. 16, has been in the county pound at Lisbon since the morning of Dec. 17 when Reichenbach found the dog wandering through Salem streets. Until Reichenbach saw a story in The Salem News concerning the dog, he had to wait to ascertain the identity of the owner since the dog was not licensed. The warden reminds all owners to keep their dogs tagged, so that officials can contact them when the animals are found.

Sputnik Replaces Christ Child In East German Celebration

Berlin (U) — The Red rulers of the 18 million people of East Germany have put Sputnik in place of the Christ child as the symbol of Christmas celebration.

Models of the Russian earth satellite reign over the traditional Christmas fairs throughout the German puppet state. Children thronging the colorful fairs see no hint of the season's religious theme.

The East German citizen who obeys his commissar will decorate his Christmas tree with Sputniks bearing red stars and gold hammers and sickles. His children will hear old German tales of fairies and witches, but not the story of the Nativity.

Christmas comes this year to Mockingly — the East German newspapers say: "Why not let the American Sputnik—once it gets started—establish radio communication with the Creator? In case of success we shall be delighted to report in detail about it."

In a Christmas message to the Communist youth organization, the regime declared: "Now let us not forget that even under the Christmas tree there aren't always people of good will. Even at Christmas time imperialists are imperialists and NATO bishops are NATO bishops."

The Reds have denied travel permits to thousands who wanted to spend Christmas with friends and relatives in West Germany. Still refugees streamed into West Berlin last week at the rate of about 600 a day. Some 25,000 of them will spend the holidays in squalid camps, most of them waiting for air transport to West Germany.

Aside from the spiritual conflict and tightened police controls, many East Germans will find this Christmas a more appetizing one. Meat, butter and sugar are still rationed, but the state-run shops seem to have sufficient Christmas delicacies for those who can pay.

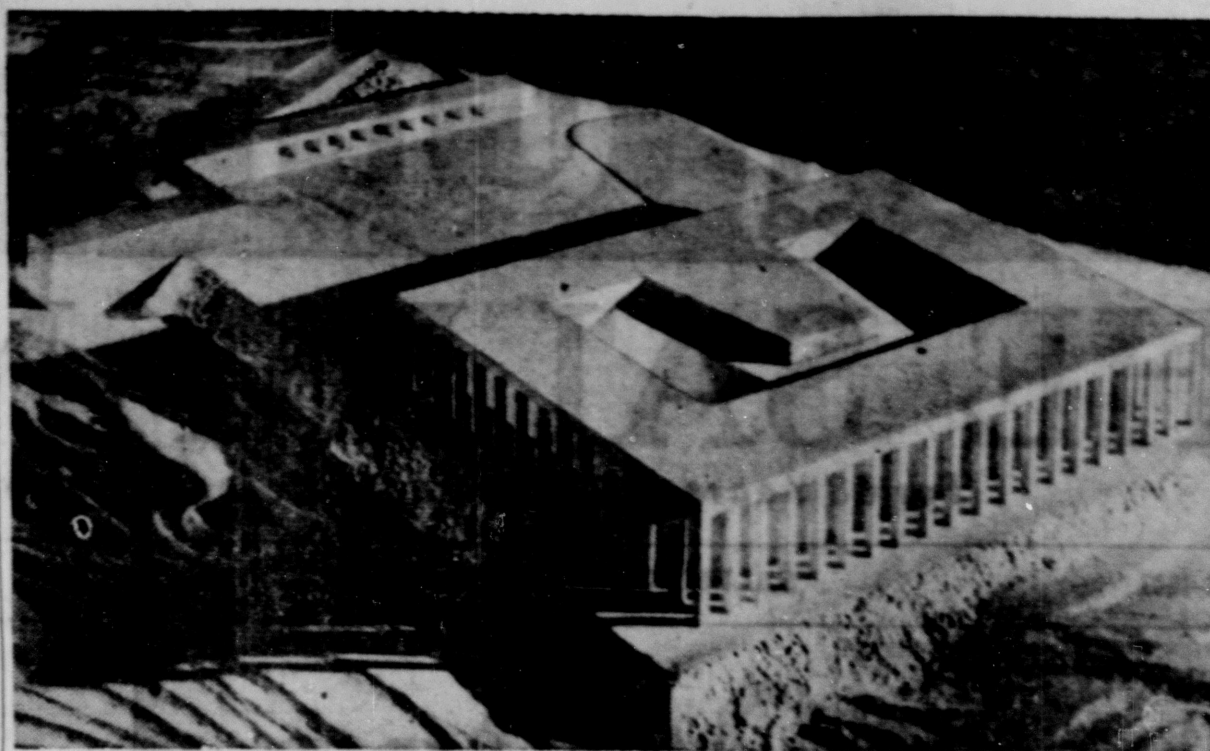

The toy industry has turned out a variety of Sputnik gadgets and enough of many other things to make a lot of kids happy. Thousands of Christmas trees have been imported from Czechoslovakia.

One victory for old German customs over Russian influence emerges this Christmas. The Communists have given up their campaign to sell the children on "Little Father Frost," Russian counterpart of the traditional German Santa Claus.

PROPOSED PARLIAMENT—Causing somewhat of a furor is this model of Israel's new "Knesset," or Parliament building, as it would look according to a winning design chosen by state authorities in a contest among the country's leading architects. Designed by Yosef Klarwein, it vaguely resembles the famous Parthenon of Greece. The choice has aroused protests from private citizens, disappointed competitors and those who do not consider it typically "Israeli." The new Knesset would be erected on the outskirts of Jerusalem.

Electric Furnace Co. Ends Good Year, Cautious Of '58

The Electric Furnace Co. has had "one of its best" years during 1957 although officials "view 1958 with cautious optimism," according to the report of officials at the annual stockholders meeting here.

Company operations during the past year have been "very gratifying," K. U. Wirtz, president and controller; C. H. Vaughan, assistant vice president and sales manager; and W. L. Ferguson, secretary-treasurer.

Directors re-elected were Mr. Wirtz, Mr. Cope, A. E. Gose, H. P. Lindsley, R. S. Tyler Jr., West and Wirtz.

A policy of improving plant facilities to obtain better efficiency to meet the severe competition in the industrial heat-treating furnace industry proceeded at an accelerated pace during the year, with emphasis on machine replacements, Mr. Wirtz revealed.

Construction of a research building, begun in the summer, should be completed soon after the first of the year. By moving the research and experimental departments from their present location to the new building, Mr. Wirtz said, considerable floor space will be available for future expansion.

He added that improvements and modifications are being made to the company's large continuous strip heat processing line.

The current labor-management agreement existing between the company and the union at the plant will remain in effect until

Nov. 15, 1959. Wirtz said in reviewing employer-employee relations which he said have continued on a satisfactory basis through the year.

Canelec Limited of Toronto, Canada, a subsidiary of the local company, has continued to expand in that property has been purchased near Toronto on which the company will erect additional office and plant facilities for manufacturing and structural work.

In looking over the company's 1957 domestic and export activities, West commented on the decreasing backlog and said that while 1958 prospects were unpredictable, the outlook for export sales appeared favorable. West added that an upturn or improvement in both domestic and export sales after the first quarter of 1958 is "cautiously" anticipated.

BLACKLISTED IN JAPAN

TOKYO (U)—Japanese police said today that 852 foreign civilians plus "several high-ranking" American and other diplomats and U.S. military officers have been "blacklisted for misconduct." A spokesman said their expulsion from Japan would be sought.

Chief Toji Nakagawa of the National Police Criminal Board told newsmen a blacklist of 852 foreign businessmen and missionaries includes 66 Americans but would not disclose names or any details.

Nakagawa charged the foreigners were engaged in smuggling, gambling, prostitution and other crimes.

JAPANESE LEADER DIES

Miss Alice MacMillan, for many years, used the Salem News to greet her friends in Clement Moore's immortal words. We take much pleasure in following her plan.

"Twas the night before Christmas"

And away they all flew like the down of a thistle;
But I hear him exclaim, ere he drove out of sight,

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Victor Riesel

Push aside the tinsel. Let's face it. There are more than five million of our neighbors who need more than carols. They need work.

Just how we rolled into this near-depression will be the news of the new year — and the airwaves will be filled with expert voices.

ONE THING is certain, however — the labor leaders will put the blame on retrenchment. They will say that the avalanche was started by the first curtailments in defense plants. They will spin their arguments around these figures.

At least 17 per cent of the aircraft and missile program was slashed by the Pentagon — and still is being trimmed despite all talk to the contrary.

At the beginning of the missile program there were 909,000 workers in the defense field, which draws on the auto, steel, electronics, glass, rubber, metal and other vital industries for supplies.

That was two years ago. At the last full count there were 866,000 workers in the missile and aircraft plants. The estimate for this month is below 850,000.

The layoffs are still coming — at this very minute. By January, there will be less than 80,000 working.

Therefore, from the high point, in May to the first of the year, there will have been lost to the industry at least 109,000 skilled workers on whom depend much of the economy of many cities and on whose skills depends the almost tender assembly of the 70-foot missiles.

LAST APRIL, the work week was 42 hours. Suddenly this was slashed. As of Sept. it was 40 hours. Now the work week — and jobless are expected to soar to 5 million.

I mean now — is still being cut by two hours by Pentagon dollar watchers. This means that the unions find their members working a 38-hour week.

Therefore, about one-sixth less labor is going into our aircraft and guided missiles program. This means that there have been cutbacks in all the allied feeder industries, especially steel and electronics.

So, one of the first drives by the union people in '58 will be a campaign for heavy government spending to match the early 30's. This is how one of labor's top policy makers put it the other day:

"We will alert the country to the fact that we are headed for a depression. We will yell that we need our strength if we are to be a force on the international front."

From the start, the Communists have said we'd be in a depression. So we will ask for more missile production, more schools, more roads and more public works to keep our economy going."

To be of good cheer we have to help those who want no return to the 30's.

Execution Date Set For Police Slayers

COLUMBUS, Ohio — The Ohio Supreme Court today set next Jan. 23 for the execution of two Cincinnati police slayers.

Unsuccessful in their appeal from first degree murder convictions were Robert Lee Jackson and Lemuel Sam Trotter. Both are in Ohio Penitentiary's death row. An accomplice is in Lima State Hospital for the criminally insane.

Their victim was Cincinnati city detective Walter Hart. He was shot during a cafe robbery on Sept. 19, 1955.

Records show the three holdup men had been together in an Alabama prison.

Good Will Toward Men!

There are no full-scale wars this Christmas.

Overt violence is at a standstill.

But the good will toward men that has been the promise and goal of the Christian era is at a standstill, too.

The only security that seems to be worth trusting is that which is supposed to come from the possession of massive armament and what statesmen and militarists refer to as a posture of defense.

Nearing the end of 2,000 years of the Christian era there still needs to be a clearer understanding of its promise and goal.

It is not a matter for politics and militarism.

Nor is it something that can be achieved by masses of people.

It must be done by individuals who have patterned their lives on a concept of faith called Christianity. It must be done by individuals who share the concept under other names.

The promise was never that there would be peace on earth.

It was never that there would be peace on earth among men of good will.

The promise was that men of good will—those in whom the Lord was pleased—would find peace on earth.

They could not be betrayed by untoward events.

Their faith would not be undermined by doubts and fears.

They would not need to throw up their hands in despair if the state of the earth did not meet their highest specifications.

The peace they sought would be given to them as individuals, not as leaders of others.

Only by the shining example of their own good will could they hope to influence others to be like them.

Only by the peace they had earned for themselves could they expect to share the joys and satisfactions of peaceableness.

The proposition that has helped to nourish civilization for almost 2,000 years has become distorted.

Peace on earth, instead of being a blessing bestowed on men who had earned it by their own good will, has become a state to be achieved en masse by all present, whether they have earned it as individuals or not.

It is prated about by men of obvious will as some kind of hocus - pocus trick of negotiation.

That is not the way peace on earth has been achieved, ever. It is not the way it can be achieved now.

The promise and the hope have undergone distortions in the minds of men who talk of peace as if it were attainable by treaty, when it can be attained only by faith.

Our Christmas Prayer

Hardly A Merry Christmas!

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — For President Eisenhower this can hardly be a merry Christmas. He finds his leadership more seriously questioned than at any time in his life. And not just because of his life. And not just because of his life.

When he took office in 1953 this country was ahead of the Russians militarily. It is not now, at least in missiles. While he, the military leader, saved on expenses, the Russians soared ahead militarily.

Now Eisenhower must decide how to catch up. Out of this bloom other problems, crying for solution, here and elsewhere: money, taxes, foreign policy, dealing with Congress, domestic programs.

He must boost military spending. Yet in doing so, he faces the twin tasks of stopping inflation and fighting off a growing economic downturn. Living costs have been rising almost continuously; now unemployment is adding to the problem.

Eisenhower would like to cut taxes. It would crown his efforts to balance the budget. It would be good politically, since 1958 is a congressional election year. With defense costs going up tax cuts seem impossible.

And there are the problems of foreign policy. For instance: the Middle East. When he first took office, the Russians were frozen out of there. They have a strong foothold now. He has not yet found a way to pry them out.

Even how to deal with the Russians is different from when he took office in 1953. Then Russia was behind militarily. This country could negotiate from strength. Even then the Russians made no concessions.

Now they can negotiate from strength. Concessions from them seem less likely than ever. But, as the Allies showed in Paris last week, they want peaceful settlements with the Kremlin, or a try at them.

Even dealing with Congress will be tougher in 1958. In Eisenhower's first few White House years the Democrats not only were not critical of the President, but seemed in awe of him.

In fact, his own party gave him more trouble in those days. Now the Democrats are openly critical and may try to do the leading if he falters.

On domestic problems, since they're tied in with spending and spending is tied in with more money for defense, these next few weeks are the toughest and most grueling of the year for Eisenhower.

The reason: Congress returns next month and Eisenhower must have his program, foreign and domestic, more or less ready for presentation then.

For example, he must finish his budget — the amount of money he'll ask for everything—and get his budget message and his State of the Union message ready for delivery soon. Although much of this has been done, final touches are still required.

In addition to his recent trip to Paris, all this piles up on him as he is recovering from a mild stroke, his third serious ailment in little more than two years.

Peace on Earth

By JACK N. ADAMS

"Peace on earth!" the carolers sing.

"But to whom?" the cynic asks. At this Christmas season, the whole world is in a state of uneasy peace. Men everywhere are living in fear that some event of the next day or the next hour may light the fuse that would set the world aflame.

Scientists under Soviet domination are goaded and cajoled to greater and greater effort to develop new and bigger intercontinental ballistic missiles, to send bigger balls farther and farther into space and to give worse chills to security chiefs abroad.

Khrushchev boasts of Russia's scientific progress and pokes fun at America's failure. His propaganda line is designed to proclaim Russians as the master race and a glorious victory for Marxist atheism.

The gullible are taken in by his line. More and more as his broadcasts arrogantly proclaim Soviet superiority, nations become implanted with the idea that the United States does in ruth as seriously behind Russia in the crucial command of weapons of destruction. Even nations long regarded as staunch allies of America have become fearful and want to compromise with godlessness.

How we cope with this predicament will test our greatness as a people.

WE HAVE BEEN PUT to the test before and proved our mettle. We fought seemingly insurmountable odds in the Revolutionary War and came off victorious. The nation was divided by Civil War but reunited to become more unified than ever before. We had World Wars I and II thrust upon us when we were unprepared, yet we caught up in time to cast the decisive weight on the battlefields of the world.

This time there was one big difference. We had been aware of the peril since the Cold War began and had gone through the motions of being prepared.

We were complacent in over belief that we were ahead of the world in atomic progress and missile development. We were not conditioned for the shock of discovering that the Russians had done considerably more than we believed them capable of.

Now, it is time to test our faith in ourselves and in our God. We dare not fall into panicky fear nor cling to the thinnest shred of our old complacency.

Two thousand years ago, the star that the Wise Men saw in the East heralded good tidings of great joy to all mankind.

Today, two earth satellites crisscross our heavens trailing insults, threats and arrogance in their wake. The Russians think of their satellites as Russia's scientific achievement, not mankind's. They are instruments of propaganda for a political ideology.

IT IS REGRETTABLE that ours was not the first country to put new spheres into orbit, not so much as a demonstration of scientific and technological advancement but as visible evidence of a philosophic intention. That intention, of course, would be this country's desire for world peace, for global fraternity and for good will.

What could be more appropriate, when the United States does launch its satellite, than to have the symbols of every faith and hope this tired old world knows emblazoned on its brightly polished surface and for it to contain the emblems of every religion and the flag of every nation? Then, men looking up would know that the artificially - created new world carried a personal spiritual message for each of them—a 20th century Star of Bethlehem.

Go ye therefore, and teach all nations; baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost. — Matthew 28:19.

This is the ministry and its work — not to drill hearts and minds and consciences into right forms of thoughts and mental postures, but to guide to the living God who speaks. — F. W. Robertson.

For the Lord will not forsake his people for his great name's sake: because it hath pleased the Lord to make you his people — I Samuel 12:22.

Biggest Red Hoax

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Summit Conference Idea 'Propaganda Trick'

The biggest hoax in history is the "summit conference" idea sponsored in a worldwide propaganda barrage by the Communist regime in Moscow.

Many gullible persons are being taken in by it — persons who do not know but any time the Soviet government wants to say anything confidentially or otherwise to any other government all it has to do is to call in an ambassador and he will quickly transmit the message to his own government.

Not only does the United States government maintain in Moscow an ambassador with a large staff of experienced aides and translators but the Soviet government maintains in Washington an ambassador also with a large staff.

Diplomacy has certain rules—if either government wants to keep the conversation on a secret basis it is respected by both parties.

Furthermore, every other government of the free world also has an ambassador at Washington and the Soviet Union has an ambassador in each of the free countries.

There is, therefore, no lack of a means of communication by written message or personal contact.

But it is argued that a meeting "at the summit" is desirable because heads of state can "do things over."

PRESIDENTS and prime ministers, however, must have at their elbows their foreign secretaries and experts who know more than the chiefs of government do about the tricks of negotiation. So the result is not an intimate consultation after all.

The president of the United States, moreover, cannot in a conference with the head of a foreign government make an important commitment unless it has been carefully worked out in advance by the secretary of state and his advisers.

What's more, no president can make a commitment for any new policy abroad unless, on the main principles at least, he has consulted with the leaders of both parties in Congress. Only dictators can ignore their parliaments.

All this is well known in Moscow. When the Soviet government really wants to talk things over, its own ambassador at Washington is instructed to see the secretary of state in person which he can do almost at any time on short notice.

Just a few weeks ago Foreign Secretary Gromyko, who was in this country for the United Nations meetings, was at Washington and spent several hours with Secretary Dulles at his home.

For all practical purposes this was a kind of "summit conference."

What CAN BE done about it? The free governments can't let the issue rest with mere refusal to talk. Adlai Stevenson says "affirmative" attitudes must be taken toward the Bulgarian letters, for instance.

He is right if by this is meant that no document or statement issued by the Soviets should go unanswered. It is time for the free governments to be blunt and outspoken in their comments about what is going on inside Russia and in the captive countries. Until people are free, the totalitarian governments represent the biggest threat of war.

There is no peace in the world today because the men in the Kremlin are irresponsible. They refuse to permit even their own people to be freed from the vigilant eyes of the police.

The cold war in the outside world will end only when the cold war inside Soviet Russia is at an end. Then any can there be freedom for all the people.

It's that kind of statement which the West should not miss a single opportunity to disseminate throughout the world even as the "summit conference" idea is debunked for what it really is—a propaganda trick without the slightest sincerity behind it.

David Lawrence

IF THE SOVIET government wanted to reach some kind of agreement, this was the opportunity. If it still has something it wishes to sponsor and negotiate, it can always send its foreign minister to continue the conversations with Secretary Dulles.

The Soviet ambassador, moreover, can have a personal conference with the president if he desires it.

What is more, the free nations are today willing to have a conference of foreign ministers. Indeed, at Paris, last week they voted for that very proposal. But the Moscow government promptly rejected it and called for a United Nations special conference on disarmament to be attended by the representatives of 38 nations — as if anything can be done in such a mass meeting.

A conference of the major nations on disarmament was held in London earlier this year to negotiate privately but got nowhere because of the stubbornness of the Soviets.

They why do the Communists keep on proposing a "summit conference?" It is one of their trump cards. They keep saying over and over again on the radio and in the press that it is the Soviet government that wants peace and that the West wants war.

They think the world — especially the "neutralist" countries — will come eventually to believe these accusations.

WHAT CAN BE done about it? The free governments can't let the issue rest with mere refusal to talk. Adlai Stevenson says "affirmative" attitudes must be taken toward the Bulgarian letters, for instance.

He is right if by this is meant that no document or statement issued by the Soviets should go unanswered. It is time for the free governments to be blunt and outspoken in their comments about what is going on inside Russia and in the captive countries. Until people are free, the totalitarian governments represent the biggest threat of war.

Christmas Sacks

By TRUMAN TWILL

If I can pull through one more Christmas Eve without tying myself up in one of the fumble-fingered packages that must be wrapped by me, personally, at the last minute, I intend to take a giant step forward.

There are Christmas sacks being made by somebody, and if there aren't there should be. They would require no two-falls-out-of-three bouts on slippery table tops between objects shaped like a Sputnik and overmatched opponents shaped like a human being.

The trouble with human beings is that they have only two hands, besides being handicapped by the fact one hand is less useful than the other.

True, with a roll of the sticky tape that is used for almost everything these days, a man who has trouble wrapping up a bundle of garbage in an old newspaper can make out.

But the result looks exactly like a bundle of garbage tied up in Christmas wrappings.

Even after the gaps have been sealed over with a handful of colorful little stickers and the wrinkles concealed by ribbons, the resemblance is still there.

Moreover, there is trouble with cats and dogs. Nothing sets off the cats at our place as a spool of ribbon and a lot of paper flapping every which way. Last Christmas, every cat on the place had his whiskers scissored to the buff before the head of the house finished wrapping stuff whose labels and tell-tale shapes could not be trusted to prying eyes.

The dogs are not playful, just helpful. Their instinct for compassion prompts them to gather in close and breathe into the ears of ole master during his struggle. They helpfully plop their paws on the paper and lie down on top of the scissors.

Hence, the Christmas sacks. Somebody makes them. Somebody should. They must come in all sizes, from tiny to giant. They must look Christmasy. And they must have wiry, plant tapes that can be twisted around their closed tops.

Just plop the object to be concealed into the all-concealing sack, squeeze shut the open end, give one twist to the plant tape and there you are, like Santa Claus and his pack.

If a cat gets nosy, pop it in, too. Pop everything in and pile it under the tree like mailbags. Then save the sacks.

They will come in handy after Christmas for garbage. No more two falls out of three with wrapping paper, sticky tape, strings and ribbons. That nonsense has got to go.

The best day I ever lived I could not wrap anything. When I worked in a clothing store, my downfall was inability to wrap up the stiff collars all men wear in those days so they would stay wrapped until the customer got to the front door. Just about the time he went past the ready - tied four - in - hands, boing! His stiff collar would spring from its wrapping like a jack in the box and land in the boys' belt division. It had never occurred to the proprietors that collars could be stuffed into sacks, but it has occurred to me that Christmas presents could be. And should be. And will be!

I'll even spell out the name, Santa Sacks.

Once Over

THE STAR OF BETHLEHEM

This in the heavens brings no threat
Nor makes no heart grow weak. . .
It grips no man in sudden fear
And is no omen bleak;
It glimmers in the winter sky,
On schedule as of yore,
No message does it flash of hate
Or bitterness and war.
Man watches as the shepherd did
And feels its holy spells;
He sees in its embracing light
An infant, not a shell.
There is no mood of terror there—
No note of violence;
It spreads the mood of Bethlehem,
With dead love intense.
Here is no message of despair—
No harbinger of death;
This lights lowly manager warmed
By only cattle's breath;
Here is the whisper brief, Fear not;
The magic words "good will"—
The old glad tidings to mankind
Which he must trust in still.

By H. I. Phillips

A Babe's first cry. . . a mother's smile. . .
The shepherds kneeling there. . .
The mood of an eternal love
For all mankind to share;
Let satellites and rockets flare
And strive to kindle fright;
They lose their evil terror in
The spell of "Silent Night."

Mrs. John E. Baker

Miss Gloria Andrews Becomes Bride of John Edwin Baker

In a lovely candlelight service against a background of crimson poinsettias and palms, Miss Gloria Jean Andrews became Mrs. John Edwin Baker Saturday. Rev. William C. Snowball performed the double-ring ceremony at 3:30 p.m. at the First Methodist Church.

Miss Andrews is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Valerie J. Andrews of RD 5, Salem. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fherman G. Baker of RD 1, Be- loit.

Homer S. Taylor of Salem was the organist and accompanied Ruth Spalding of Alliance, who sang "Love Came Down at Christmas," "A Wedding Prayer," and "The Key to Our Hearts." The latter number was written especially for Mr. and Mrs. Baker's wedding by J. B. Bosstrom of 250 W. 4th St.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose for her wedding dress a gown of snowy "I Do" taffeta. Alencon lace bordered the scoop neckline with the bodice tapering to a wedding-ring waistline, and the bouffant skirt ending in a cathedral train, which was fashioned with six double puffs inserted with alencon lace. The four-tiered French illusion live was held in place by a Queen's crown of brilliants and seed pearls.

Miss Andrews carried a lovely bouquet which was a crescent-shaped cascade formed of white poinsettias and holly, showered with ribbons and interspersed with white angel feathers.

Attending the bride was Miss Suzanne Huff of Akron who was the maid of honor; and Miss Marilyn Xenos of Canton and Miss Grace Wierman of Franklin, the bridesmaids. All three are college friends of Miss Andrews. Also attending as a bridesmaid was Miss Doris McNamee of RD 4, Lisbon. Doris Elaine Baker, sister of the bridegroom, was the junior bridesmaid.

The girls wore princess styled dresses fashioned of emerald green with taffeta with soft cowl necklines that dipped to a low V in the back. A large bow at the back waist accented the full skirts.

They each wore bow-styled caps fashioned of matching emerald green taffeta. Their bouquets were crescent-shaped cascades and formed of crimson poinsettias and holly, accented with red plumes. White poinsettias were added to the maid of honor's bouquet.

Patty Ann Mandel of Alliance, a cousin of the bride's, was the flower girl. Her gown and cap were styled after those of the other attendants. Her flower basket was filled with red poinsettia blooms, and white pompoms.

Mrs. Clifford Lee Greenisen

Miss Kathryn Ferrall Becomes Bride of Clifford Greenisen

Miss Kathryn Anne Ferrall and Clifford Lee Greenisen exchanged their marriage vows Sunday at 7:30 p.m. in the Emmanuel Lutheran Church. Rev. John Bauman, pastor emeritus, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride is a daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Walter C. Ferrall of 8 Addison St., Arlington, Mass. Mr. Greenisen is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Christen of Lisbon Road.

The church was decorated in the holiday theme with two lighted Christmas trees, and aisle and window candles. Two vases of white pompons and red poinsettias enhanced the altar. Tapers in candleabra lighted the setting.

Marshall Bailey of S. Lincoln Ave. presided at the organ for the nuptial melodies.

Dr. Ferrall gave his daughter in marriage. Her white velvet full-length gown was fashioned with a V-neck, long sleeves and a full skirt, with extra fullness at the back forming a short train.

The bride's waist-length veil was attached to a rhinestone tiara. Her bouquet was a cascade of white poinsettia and pine.

Miss Mary Elizabeth Ferrall of Arlington was her sister's maid of honor. With her emerald green gown, she wore a crown of rhinestones, and her flowers were pink poinsettia blooms backed with pine.

Mrs. Oscar Sudstedt of Flint, Mich., and Miss Barbara Patterson of S. Lincoln Ave. were bridesmaids. They wore deep pink gowns and rhinestone caps and carried red poinsettia blooms combined with pine.

The attendants' short gowns were designed like the bride's gown.

James Callahan of Columbus served as best man. Thomas Pastier of E. 4th St. and Donald Loutzenhiser of State College, Pa. ushered.

Mrs. Ferrall's light Dior blue chiffon dress was styled with a high neckline, three-quarter length sleeves and full skirt. The bridegroom's mother wore a Dior blue satin sheath with scoop neckline and short sleeves. Both mothers complemented their attire with deep red rosebud corsages fastened to their purses.

A reception for 150 guests was held in the church parlor. The refreshment tables were laid with heirloom cloths. The three-tiered cake, topped with white sugar bells was served by Miss Janice Groves. Miss Marilyn Dodge presided at the crystal punch bowl.

Mrs. Robert Funk registered the guests from Salem, Youngstown, Columbus, Poland, Barberton, Columbus, Cleveland, Lisbon, Dayton, Palo Alto, Calif., and State College, Pa.

The bride attended Salem High School and Little Rock, Ark. Central High School. She studied one year at Boston University and two years at Lake Erie College for Women, Painesville.

The bridegroom, an accountant, is a graduate of Salem High School. He served in the Navy four years and is now attending Youngstown University.

For traveling through Northern Ohio on the honeymoon trip, the bride chose a deep blue wool jersey dress with black cashmere coat and black accessories, and she wore a corsage of deep red roses.

The couple will reside at 1543 E. Midlothian, Youngstown.

Saturday night, Mr. and Mrs. Christen entertained at the rehearsal dinner at the Timberlakes. Carrying out the red, white and green colors chosen for the wedding, the centerpiece was an arrangement of pine, holly and poinsettias. Places at the white cover table were marked with white ceramic bells inscribed with the guests' names.

Sunday, the bride and groom and their immediate families were entertained at a brunch at the Timberlakes. The bride's aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Frank McGinty of Youngstown, were hosts.

Santa Claus Has His Work Laid Out For Him Tonight

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — Santa Claus has his work laid out for him tonight. What good businessmen want most — customers — as many as a few months back. What every one wants—a real end to the long promised letup in the rising cost of living. What owners of stocks want—

House and give the President a budget formula that would let him raise spending for defense at the time that tax collections on incomes are falling and still keep the federal books out of the red. Any business man would also like some way to keep his profit margins from going on shrinking while his operating costs go on swelling.

Here, too, are some special gift suggestions for individual industries, scar Santa:

The oil, gas and coal men could use some real cold weather—and an end to this horsing around with May in December. Oilmen also would like to know just how far offshore the Gulf of Mexico states really go. And if you can solve the squabble over imports, Santa, you're a whiz.

Poor Agriculture Secretary Benson could use some help, too. All he wants for Christmas is one formula that gives farmers higher prices for their products, consumers lower prices for their food and clothing, and politicians all the votes they want.

Auto dealers would probably settle for just customers. Their stocks of new cars are climbing toward the 80,000 level. And auto workers could use fewer layoffs and longer work weeks.

Steelmen are easy to please, too. With output down around the 1954 recession level, some new orders in their stockings would be just dandy.

Coppermen have been cutting back on production, but they could use some assurance that orders will pick up enough to stave off further price cutting.

The railroads at first glance seem a little difficult to please. They don't seem happy with the passengers you gave them last Christmas. But, boy, could they use some more of what they really love, freight customers.

The airlines have pretty good business, but they say they can't make out because fares are too low and costs are mounting. How about that, Santa?

Textile workers are taking a long holiday. But they'd like to know that when it's over the jobs will be steady and the sales better.

Home builders would like to meet some more would-be home owners. And the latter would like lower building costs and easier mortgage terms.

School boards would like to know how to finance new buildings without going in hock till kingdom come.

Economists would like a sure-fire guessing machine.

Merchants pray that you make everyone happy—and there are no returns or exchanges.

Okay, Santa?

Atomic Plant Operating at Full Power

SHIPPINGPORT, Pa. (AP)—The world's first large-scale completely commercial atomic power plant is operating at full power, feeding 60,000 net kilowatts of electricity into lines of Duquesne Light Co.

A joint announcement Monday by the Atomic Energy Commission and Duquesne Light, which is operating the station for the AEC, said the output represented the expected final capacity of the historic Shippingport plant.

The announcement said that at full power level the plant's atomic reactor or furnace was producing more electricity than other reactor in existence.

Although the plant's capacity is rated at 60,000 kw, nuclear engineers believe it is capable of producing more. For that reason the turbine generator has a capacity of 10,000 kw.

A spokesman for Duquesne Light said the plant will operate at or near full power for several days, then possibly will be shut down and started up a number of times as engineers test every facet of its operation.

The 110 million dollar plant first began generating electricity Wednesday. Initial output was only 5,000 kw. Gradually, the power was stepped up.

Sixty thousand kilowatts can supply the residential needs of a community of some 250,000 population.

Duquesne light supplies electricity to 450,000 residential industrial and commercial consumers in Allegheny (Pittsburgh) and Beaver, (Pa.) counties.

Manslaughter Charge Dismissed by Judge

MOUNT VERNON, Ohio (AP)—Municipal Court here Monday dismissed charges against Mary Louis Dugan, 25, of Johnstown, charged with manslaughter for allegedly causing the death of a prematurely born child.

The charges stated that, on May 19, a car driven by Miss Dugan collided with the rear of an auto in which Mrs. Mary Dickerson of Columbus, who filed the charge, was riding. Ten days later Mrs. Dickerson gave birth to a child, three months prematurely. The infant died.

Judge C. J. Lester ruled that a six-month-old fetus is not capable of living separately from the mother's body, and thus, under the language of the manslaughter laws, is not a person.

John McDonald of East Liverpool is chairman of the committee for this project.

STATE HOUSE LIT UP

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Thieves COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The State House took on an appearance "truest to daylight possible" Monday when $9,177 worth of lighting was turned on the building. On a signal from Gov. C. William O'Neill, 14 1,000-watt mercury vapor, color-corrected flood lights; two 400-watt lights; 48 150-watt projector flood lights in the dome and other lights in the recesses behind the pillars on the four sides were turned on.

A bill authorizing the lighting was passed in the last legislature.

Columbiana Officials Will Replace Tile to Give Storm Water Relief

COLUMBIANA — To afford a measure of immediate local relief from storm water conditions in the present storm water sewer.

Police Kill Youth, 18, In Attempted Burglary

DAYTON, Ohio — One 18-year-old was killed by police gunfire and another surrendered early today in the market the young pair apparently was trying to burglarize, authorities said.

Police tentatively identified the dead youth as Ronnie Gene Terry of Dayton. Montgomery County detective Lt. R. C. Beckett said Dayton patrolman R. G. Evans fired at Terry with his riot gun after the youth ignored orders to halt and a warning shot, and whirled as if to draw a weapon.

The other youth, identified by police as Harold E. Loftis of Dayton, is being held in Montgomery County Jail.

Lt. Smith said the two robbed a cash register near the meat counter in Stump's Market, just out side the Dayton city limits. They then tampered with the market's safe, he said, setting off a burglar alarm.

Sheriff's officers answered the alarm and called for reinforcements from the city police, Lt. Smith said. He said Patrolman Evans was in the first car to arrive and attempted to stop Terry, when the latter hurled some scales through a plate glass window and tried to flee.

He has admitted, deputies said, firing a shotgun blast into the home at Petersburg of his former wife Alice, 35, which wounded her and killed Shandor.

Petersburg Man Held For Murder

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio — A charge of first degree murder has been made against Wilbur Rauch, 41, in the shotgun slaying of George Shandor, also 41, of New Middletown. Rauch, charged Monday, pleaded innocent and was bound over to the Mahoning County grand jury.

He has admitted, deputies said, firing a shotgun blast into the home at Petersburg of his former wife Alice, 35, which wounded her and killed Shandor.

12-inch line from Seventh St. a distance of some 250 feet north to the present storm water sewer.

The line starts a short distance south of the point where Route 164 to Youngstown branches off N. Main St. Negotiations with property owners have been in progress a couple of years for easements to augment the capacity of the present inadequate 24-inch main storm sewer, which receives the drainage of a 40-acre area. The plan is to lay an additional storm sewer of perhaps a 40-inch or more diameter.

Streets newly built up and improved in the area have served to expedite the flow of storm water so that its accumulation in the lower areas cannot be carried off fast enough to avoid flood conditions. Newly-paved Seventh St. has sustained some damage from flood waters.

Christmas Eve programs are scheduled for Columbiana churches for today.

At 8 p.m. there will be a candle-lighting service in Jerusalem Lutheran Church, when Rev. A. A. Anderson, will preach on "A Stairway to the Stars."

Candlelight services are scheduled for 9 p.m. in both Grace United Church of Christ and the Presbyterian Church.

A PROGRAM of Christmas music will be presented in Midway Mennonite Church, north of town on Route 46, at 7:45 p.m. today. Jacob Huebert is director of the church chorus.

RAPHAEL the Herald Angel

By DAVID APPEL and MERLE HUDSON

CHAPTER 5

"Raphael!"
"Raphael!"

Had the choir-master really heard his name called? Or was it only a trick of his imagination? Who could be interrupting his meditations in the Silent Grove? Didn't every angel in Heaven realize that here no one was to be disturbed?

The Herald Angel raised his eyes in astonishment—and found himself peering into the smiling face of Lemuel. The tenor nodded at him pleasantly.

"Come, Raphael," Lemuel said as if there were nothing the least bit unusual about his presence. "Come with me."

"Do not disturb me, old friend," answered the choir-master. "I am thinking."

"And so you have been," Lemuel readily agreed, "for more than 1,900 years."

"YEARS? Centuries? Days? What are they to us? Nineteen hundred years are less than a moment on the eternal calendar," Raphael replied with some annoyance.

"If I tell you the need to remain in silence, please observe the rules and allow me to do so. No one else has interrupted me at any time for any reason. You, my closest friend, should know better than to do so!"

The smile left Lemuel's face. "I have been commanded to come here, Raphael. I have been ordered to take you with me."

"Where are we going?"
"To earth."

"To earth!" exclaimed Raphael, springing to his feet in alarm. "No that I cannot do! See here, Lemuel, you know I have remained here in the Silent Grove since the night we sang for man."

"I have spoken to no one, I have listened to no one. During all that time, my thoughts have been concerned with just one question—how did I fail in bringing news of the Gift to mankind? What did I do wrong?"

"And only this morning, Lemuel, only this morning did I at least realize the answer!"

LEMUEL GAZED steadily at his friend, but did not speak.

"Yes," continued Raphael, "today I came to see that the fault was not mine, nor that of the music we sang, nor that of the words of our hymns. The fault lies in man himself! Mankind did not want to understand. Men are hopeless."

The choir-master returned to his seat. Every determined line of his body made it plain that he would not budge.

"Yes," he repeated, "men are hopeless. I will have nothing more to do with them."

Lemuel gently placed his hand on Raphael's shoulder.

"You have explained why I am here. Our Father knows the path your thoughts have taken. That is why He has commanded me to lead you out of the Silent Grove."

"Tonight, Raphael is the anniversary of the journey we made together on the night the Child was born. And tonight we must return."

THE HERALD ANGEL knew there could be no further delay. Without even a backward glance, he followed Lemuel out of the Grove, through the streets of the Beautiful City, past the Rainbow Field where the cherubim play and through the Majestic Gates. Into the darkness the two angels flew.

In that limbo between Heaven and earth, Raphael wanted to linger. There, between star and satellite, there were the past, the present and the future all meet, he wished to tarry. But Lemuel refused.

"We travel far tonight," he said. "There is much for you to see."

"I am ready," Raphael replied. "But before we go farther, Lemuel, please tell me one thing. How did it fare with the Child on earth?"

"All but a few men rejected Him," said Lemuel. "After only a short time He was slain."

The Herald Angel covered his face with his hands, and slowly shook his head.

"I will go with you. Why are we going I cannot understand—but I will go. I am ready."

SWIFTLY, soundlessly, the two angels continued their journey until at last they paused to rest on a cloud which hovered just above the flickering lights of a city.

"How high they make their buildings!" said Raphael.

"Some of those buildings reach all the way to Heaven," answered Lemuel. "Mortals call them churches. They have been built to honor God, and to worship His Gift to mankind."

"Impossible!" declared the Herald Angel. "The Son of God was not accepted. You yourself just told me that."

"You have been in the Silent Grove for almost 2,000 centuries, dear friend. You have much to learn tonight."

"Come close with me to this building, and read the words that are carved above the door."

Raphael peered at the inscription. For Thine Is The Kingdom, he read, And The Power, And The Glory, Forever.

"DOES THIS MEAN," he asked, "that there are still a few men and women on earth who love our Father and His Son as we do?"

"Far more than a few!" answered Lemuel. "Look around you, Raphael—this is a city, one of the biggest that man has ever built. Now look far over, far, far beyond that river, to where only a few lights are glimmering in the night."

"Raphael, both this giant city and that tiny town have many buildings dedicated to the Son of God."

"He was a healer. They have built hospitals in His name on earth, where the sick are housed and cured."

"He was a teacher. Man has built many places of learning, again in His name and glory."

"Look, Raphael, look at the window of this school for children. Do you see all the paintings and pictures the children have pasted to the panes? These are all symbols of the Gift."

"These snowflakes, these trees, these wreaths, these gaily colored balls— and here, Raphael, here's a drawing of an angel!"

THE HERALD ANGEL laughed. It was the first time he had laughed in almost 2,000 years.

"Why, Lemuel," he said, "this angel looks like you!"

The tenor snorted.

"Please—I'm not quite as plump as that!"

"Oh, this is a wonderful visit!" cried Raphael. "More—please, let us see more."

"We will. Come, let us walk along their streets."

"Oh, no—no, dear friend we'll frighten them."

"This time they shall not see us. But," the angel added, "look at those crowds! Be sure they do not frighten you!"

In an instant the two friends were separated. Raphael found himself being pushed along, pulled, jostled; girls, their faces shining, their arms piled high with multi-colored packages, came before him. Laughing children were under-foot and under-wing.

"Merry Christmas!" he heard them say as they bumped into one another. "Merry Christmas! Merry Christmas!"

IT WAS TO MUCH for the Herald Angel. He darted above the street to the safety of a low-hanging cloud.

"Lemuel," he called, "Lemuel, come and get me!"

"I'm right here," his friend answered from the other side of the cloud. "I'll be out as soon as I can straighten my wings."

As Lemuel finally emerged, adjusting his robes and halo, he said: "I was caught in a crowd in front of a toy store. A dangerous place for angels—a toy store on Christmas Eve."

The Herald Angel did not understand.

"You see," the tenor explained, "men and women celebrate the Birth of the Son by exchanging gifts. At this time of the year they remember people they have never seen, and never will."

"On this day, as on no other, they find joy in giving. And most of all, Raphael, they give presents to their children."

"But that is not the only way they celebrate the Giving of the Gift," Lemuel continued. "In their churches they meet to pray by the light of many candles."

"Look below, Raphael, through the open doors of that little church; you will see how vividly people remember each moment of that night almost 2,000 years ago."

RAPHAEL'S FACE glowed with happiness.

"Yes—there are the Mother, the Child, Joseph, and three shepherds. Are they speaking, Lemuel? Or are they singing?"

"You will have your answer, Raphael. Let me take you into one of their homes."

IT WAS A MODEST home on a starlit street that the two angels selected. As they approached they could see a rainbow of colored lights reflected in the windows; from within they heard voices, young voices.

They were three children in the room, and with them their mother and father.

All were gathered around a large tree that reached to the ceiling, and glowed with small lights and ornaments. Raphael looked questioning toward Lemuel.

"It is a symbol of this holy day," Lemuel replied. "It is called a Christmas tree. And Raphael, don't look so worried. These mortals can neither see nor hear us."

One of the little boys was tugging at his father's arm.

"Read us a story before we go to bed," he begged. "Please read us a Christmas story, daddy!"

THE HUSBAND looked at his wife, and a smile passed between them.

"This is the time," the father said, "to read the best Christmas story of all!"

He walked to the side of the room where a case held many books, and selected a large one from the shelves. The place for reading was already marked.

Slowly, with deep feeling in his voice, he read from the book: "And it came to pass in those days..."

The children grew silent as they heard ancient words that were ever new.

"And brought forth her first born son, and wrap him in swaddling clothes and laid him in a manger..."

"And there were in the same country shepherds, abiding in the fields, keeping watch over their flocks by night..."

RAPHAEL LISTENED and watched, and was carried back 20 centuries. He strained for every word.

"And the angel said unto them: 'Fear not, for, Behold I bring you good tidings of great joy which shall be to all people. For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Saviour Christ the Lord.'"

Now the Herald Angel could contain himself no longer.

"Your words, Lemuel!" he whispered to his companion. "These are the very words you sang as you walked through the clouds!"

But before the tenor could reply new sounds filled the air—laughter, and from the house glad cries of welcome. There in a semi-circle on the snow-covered lawn were children, laughing children, tall and short, thin and chubby, their eyes as bright—yes, Raphael decided—as bright as those of the cherubim.

"They have come to sing Christmas carols," Lemuel explained. "It is the custom."

THE CHILDREN'S faces glowed with the twinkling red, green, blue, yellow and white lights of the Christmas tree. The tallest boy stepped forward. He raised his arms high in a signal for quiet; higher, higher—and then he brought them down, and led the group in song.

"Glory to God in the Highest," they sang, "and on earth, peace, good will to men!"

This was the first time in almost 20 centuries that Raphael had listened to a group of singers. With the interest of a professional musician, he observed the way the young voices blended, and watched the confident gestures of the young conductor.

"They have a pleasant freshness in their voices," he thought. "They stay on key. I could do much with them."

THEN, SUDDENLY, the Herald Angel became aware of the words of the carol. They were his words! It was the song of the Angel Choir on the night the Child was born!

"Lemuel," he shouted and tears of joy streamed down his face, "They are singing the song of the Heavenly Chorus! It wasn't lost—our songs were never lost! Our message was heard! They heard us, Lemuel! We did not fail!"

He closed his eyes tight shut. He raised his arms toward Heaven.

"Father," the Herald Angel whispered, "Father, I thank Thee!"

AND FROM ABOVE Raphael heard a high note, a low note and a middle note. Three cherub voices, voices bubbling with happiness, picked up the refrain.

And then they were joined by others—by the Hallelujah Choir, the Vesper singers, the Jubilee Chorus, the Angelus Choir, and by all the pure, sweet voices of all the cherubim.

The magnificent sound rose. Slowly the choir-master turned, rapture fighting his face—his left side to Heaven, his right side toward the children on the lawn. The voices of the two spheres blended into a joyous carol that resounded through the skies.

And Raphael, the Herald Angel, led the mighty chorus.

Wyoming still has vast copper and silver deposits.

Merry Christmas To All

By The Associated Press
CHARLOTTE, N.C., (AP) — On a trip with her mother to a shopping center here several days ago, little Jennie Buckley met Santa Claus, gave him her name and told him what she wanted for Christmas. Jennie made a second trip to the center Monday, this time with her grandmother. Again she met Santa. "And what is your name, little girl?" chortled old Santa. "Still Jennie," piped Jennie.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Whimpers came from a South Philadelphia mailbox Monday as residents tossed in last-minute Christmas cards, and a hurriedly summoned postal carrier found a tiny puppy inside.

The little dog, about 2 weeks old, was in a shopping bag and nearly suffocated, said Samuel Parisi, postal superintendent, who gave the pup milk at the post office.

"I'm giving myself a Christmas present," Parisi said and took the puppy home with him.

TYLER, Tex. (AP) — There'll be lots of jingling around Tyler this Christmas, but it will be money, not sleigh bells.

The $4,078.43 quarterly payroll for the Tyler National Guard unit arrived Monday, all in silver except for the odd cents.

The 300-pound shipment was flown in from Ft. Sam Houston, Tex.

Capt. Norman Flippo, Guard commander, said the payment in silver dollars had a two-fold purpose: "To let the merchants know what the National Guard means to Tyler, and for the jumpoff in a recruiting campaign."

Hugo, Okla. (AP) — For three years now, Frisco Railroad trainmen have been greeted by a wave of a hand in the daytime and a wave of a flashlight at night when the eastbound freight from here passed a small farm near Miller-ton, Okla.

The little greeter, who trainmen say never misses a day regardless of the weather, is 6-year-old Joan Mason.

Monday Frisco Train 75 made an unscheduled stop a mile east of Millerton. Conductor L. E. Hay got down to present Joan with a brand new Christmas bicycle purchased by her trainmen friends.

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A group of men who will not be home for Christmas made the day a little happier for 67 children.

The men are inmates at Missouri state penitentiary. They collected $1,273 and bought gifts for the children living in two St. Louis founding homes, the St. Francis Girls Home and the Methodist Children's home.

Warden E. V. Nash, his wife and three prisoners visited the kids and distributed the toys Monday.

Warden Nash said the idea originated with the prisoners.

CHICAGO (AP) — An unusual Christmas party was held Monday, with the guests stuffing themselves with carrots. There was no Santa Claus, no Christmas carols. It was the annual yule party for old horses that pull the coal carts and junk wagons along the streets of the near South Side. The party started in a vacant lot and moved to several livery stables in the area.

The Anticruelty Society, which sponsored the party, didn't have enough gifts for all the horses at the party. But 12 got new blankets.

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Veteran Burgess David Hershman of near-by McKees Rocks gave away his entire annual salary of $3,500 today — for the 12th year in a row. Hershman, who owns a furniture store and says he does not need the money from his part-time political duties, purchased Christmas food baskets for 350 needy persons.

SEDONA, Ariz. (AP) — She's too young to realize it, but 18-month-old Linda Lee McCreary will never have cause for a merrier Christmas.

Left in the car while her mother shopped in this north central Arizona town, Linda Lee was soon in danger when the brakes gave way. The car rolled across the street and started down a 300-foot embankment.

About 20 feet below the top, it was caught by a scrubby tree.

A group of men hurriedly formed a human chain. Dr. Leo Schnur, at the downhill end of the chain, opened the door and rescued the child.

FIRE GUTS BUILDING.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A 75-year-old laundry building at the Franklin County home here was gutted by fire Monday night. Firemen estimated damage to the building at $8,000 and damage to its contents at $17,000. The cause has not been determined.

Man Wins Legal Round In Driver's Permit Suit

CINCINNATI (AP) — Fred Youngblood, 47, of nearby Lockland, has won another legal round in his contention that the state of Ohio had no right to take away his drivers' license last July.

The First District Court of Appeals Monday upheld a Common Pleas Court ruling in which Youngblood contended that the law was not in effect at the time because 90 days had not elapsed after it was signed by the governor.

The state sought to take away his license after Lockland mayor A. M. Leflar convicted him on two driving counts, each worth six points under Ohio's new 12-point suspension law.

Youngblood, in a separate case, was convicted of drunken driving Dec. 3 for the fourth time in three years and was sentenced to 18 months, workhouse term and fine $500. His license was then suspended for two years.

Car Catches Fire; Girl Burns To Death

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Mrs. Hedra Moore parked her late model station wagon in a downtown parking lot to do some last minute shopping Monday.

She left Mercedes Walk, 18, who lives with her, sitting in the front seat while the Moore's two sons, 4 and 5, sat in back.

The car suddenly burst into flames. The girl was burned to death, but the boys escaped. Police and firemen are investigating to determine what caused the blaze.

Sportsmen Win 5th In Row

Main St. Motors
Loses to Kitchens

Six straight points at the beginning of the third period carried Youngstown Kitchens from a 28-25 intermission deficit to a 21-23 lead they never relinquished in their 64-61 win over Main St. Motors Monday in one of two Class A games played in the Memorial Building.

In the evening's first clash, the Sportsmen stayed undefeated, winning their fifth straight in whipping Murphy's Service 57-49.

Twenty-three points by Butch Anderson, former Boardman High star, carried Murphy's offensive game to Kitchens, but the winners' more balanced attack, led by Bob Capel, made the difference.

Capel obtained his fourth personal foul in the first period but still came back to top Kitchens scorers with 18 points. Matt Klein had 13 and Galen Beck 12 to help the winners.

The losers led at the quarter 13-6 and at the half 28-25.

The Sportsmen, paced by Ed Jordan's 19 markers, led all the way in their verdict over their Alliance opponents as they held a 16-8 first quarter edge and a 32-25 half time bulge.

John Siskowic had 14 and Bob Payer 13 to help the Sportsmen.

Ed Agnani was high for the losers with 14 while Dick Russell had 10.

Stubble Quail Leaves Average
Hunter With Mixed Emotions

By The Associated Press

The stubble quail has had its first substantial test with the average American hunter — and like the first taste of bird's nest soup, this latest dainty Far Eastern import has left experimenters with mixed emotions about the whole thing.

In Missouri, where the precocious little coturnix got his big start and biggest boost so far as a fill-in for bob white, hunters continue to help state game managers keep books on the birds in one of the nation's largest co-operative efforts.

In Arkansas, game managers and hunters alike looked at one another and asked, "Where'd they go?" The fast-traveling habits of coturnix—which in Asia is a true migratory bird—is one of the advertised disadvantages for any put-and-take stocking. But in Arkansas, where three big plantings were put out and observed, one was clean of birds in five days and in 18 days all were empty.

In Oklahoma, a combined plant of 20,000 birds by private game breeders and clubs who hatched and released the birds themselves, turned up some enthusiastic comments and some to match Arkansas.

In Nebraska, hunters had 23,000 birds—all banded, for record purposes—to shoot at, and shot with a will. The state's game managers thought that if coturnix either would stick around instead of taking off on long migrations, things might be pretty promising out where bob white's premises have been getting a little thin. They remember the success story of the pheasant, introduced in Nebraska around 1916.

And the first coturnix was reported shot in the northern peninsula of Michigan—the least likely spot in a comparatively unlikely state for the oriental visitor.

This bird was from Tennessee, which illustrates the migratory thing fairly well. When coturnix gets up out of the stubble as though he were going to fly into the next state, he may not be kidding.

Underdog West Team
Counts on Passing

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—An underdog West team, without the big names of the favored East, counts on passing to bring an upset in the Dec. 28 Shrine game.

Head coach Jack Curcio, whose University of Utah was the nation's pace setter in passing with 1,952 yards, directs the aerial warfare.

His top man in the throwing department will be Jack Douglas from Stanford, where the forward pass has been the mainstay several years.

Douglas ranked eighth nationally by completing 78 of 146 throws for 957 yards and 10 touchdowns. Tom Flores of College of the Pacific provides more aerial strength. He finished sixth nationally with 82 completions out of 184 throws for 980 yards and 5 touchdowns.

Joe Francis of Oregon State, a triple threat tailback who will be a T-formation quarterback this game, also has proved an adept thrower.

Gerry Nesbitt, the Arkansas fullback, thinks the West stands a good chance of winning.

"We're not as big as they are, and we haven't the reputations," says Nesbitt. "That worries our boys, kind of shakes them up. And guys in that frame of mind bear down and play real football."

East Coach Rip Engle of Penn State, using a wing T formation, isn't figure to do as much passing as the West as he works for a balanced attack.

Last year the West won 7-6, scoring on a pass.

BLAMES AMERICAN SPIES

BERLIN (AP)—Communist East Germany today blamed American spies for the mysterious reopening of a famous tunnel connecting East and West Berlin.

The passageway leads from the burned-out Reichstag Building in West Berlin to the former residence of the Reichstag president in the East.

After World War II it became a highway for blackmarketers until authorities in both East and West Berlin blocked it with brick walls inside the tunnel.

The Communist organ Neues Deutschland charged today that someone tried to break down the walls last Sunday.

OSU 19-Point Favorite Over
Oregon In Rose Bowl Tilt

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—The Christmas spirit pervaded the Rose Bowl football scene today.

Ohio State's highly favored Buckeyes, following morning and afternoon workouts, had their annual Yuletide party scheduled to night. Each of the 44 players was to receive presents from wives, parents and friends.

As the two teams breezed into the pre-Christmas practice sessions, each had a couple of cripplies. The Oregon squad had Pete Welch, second-string end, on the bench with a twisted knee and Harry Mondale, co-captain and guard, in the infirmary with influenza.

The Bucks, 19-point favorites in the New Year's Day classic, had halfback Gary Ballinger on the shelf with a broken right hand, suffered in Monday's practice, and center Dan Frock out of action with an infected left toe.

Coach Woody Hayes, the nation's number one mentor from Ohio State, addressing the Southern California football writers at a luncheon Monday, said the Buckeye squad, bothered four years ago by intestinal disorders, had been inoculated by general influenza shots before leaving Ohio.

I had a stomach ache from the shots," Woody said. "And with me, that's a pretty big ache."

win, 17 favored Oregon and 5 others thought it would wind up in a tie. The gambling odds fellows had Ohio a 19-point favorite.

A year ago, as the scribes and other guests voted on the game's possible outcome, one of the Rose Bowl queen's feminine attendants won the first prize by picking the exact score, much to the chagrin of the experts.

West Virginia Rated Nation's Top Cage Squad In AP Poll

North Carolina Tumbles To 4th

Kansas Is Boosted To Second Position

By The Associated Press
West Virginia which got to the top the hard way, can sit back and relax for awhile as the No. 1 team in college basketball.

After that whirlwind weekend at Lexington, Ky., during which they knocked off first Kentucky then national champion North Carolina, the Mountaineers made an unprecedented move from eighth to first, replacing the Tar Heels, in today's Associated Press poll.

The impressive victory over North Carolina, which had won 37 straight, in the final of the Kentucky Invitational bagged 42 first-place votes for West Virginia and a 57-point edge over Kansas. West Virginia is 8-0, Kansas 7-0.

West Virginia resumes play Jan. 2 against Canisius.

Kansas, gaining 41 first-place votes, and third-ranked Kansas State (7-0) have the Big Eight Tournament ahead this weekend in Kansas City.

North Carolina traveled to fourth in the poll, with unbeatens Cincinnati 6-0 and Maryland (5-0) fifth and sixth. Then comes State, Kentucky and Mississippi State (7-0).

While the poll is based on games through last Saturday, Michigan State and Kentucky padded their records Monday night on a rather slim schedule.

The unbeaten Spartans won their fifth in a 57-51 overtime tussle with Iowa State while thrice beaten Kentucky had a breeze in a 62-64 decision over Utah State. It was the Wildcats' sixth victory.

Iowa State, rated 20th, had the Spartans all tied up, but couldn't pop 'em in the oven, blowing a six-point lead early in the second half. A free throw brought Iowa State a 50-50 tie with 2 minutes left, but after stalling for a final shot, the Cyclones missed with 4 seconds left in regulation play.

Jack Quiggle, high man with 19 points, scored four of State's seven points in the overtime.

Johnny Cox scored 21 and Adrian Smith 20 for Kentucky, which led by 17 at the half in running up its highest score of the season.

Bradley, rated No. 11, claimed a 4-1 record with Shelly McMillon and Billy Joe Mason combining for 43 points in a 77-61 victory over St. Mary's of California.

St. Louis, beaten only by Kentucky, won its third with an 80-63 job on Washington's Huskies.

Unbeaten Utah, ranked 12th, won its seventh with a 70-48 decision over Washington State.

Oregon State whipped Indiana 62-51.

Oklahoma battered winless Ohio State 64-55. Oregon, beaten only by Oregon State, won its sixth straight, 79-76 over Brigham Young.

Loyola of New Orleans, in a tuneup for the Sugar Bowl tournament, clobbered Louisiana State 94-62.

OSU Defeated By Oklahoma

Loss 5th In Row For Ohio State

NORMAN, Okla. (AP)—Oklahoma outshot winless Ohio State from the field and at the foul line Monday night to whip the Buckeyes, 64-55.

Ohio State managed to tie the game at 31-all with 16 minutes left, but Oklahoma center Joe King, who had 19 points, paced the Sooners as they pulled away. Frank Howard scored 16 for Ohio State.

Oklahoma had a 41.7 percentage from the field, scoring with 25 of 60 shots, and hit 14 of 24 at the foul line. Ohio State hit on 22 of 64 fielders for 34.4 per cent, and put in 11 of 25 free throws.

Despite failing to score a field goal in the first seven and last six minutes of the first half, Ohio State trailed only 25-21 at mid-point. It is their fifth straight loss.

Answer To Browns' Comeback Lies Partly In The Rookies

CLEVELAND (AP)—How did the Cleveland Browns bounce back so fast?
The 1956 season was their worst. Otto Graham had retired for the second and last time, and soon George Ratterman was hurt. They gave Babe Parilli the quarterback job and picked up an almost unknown, Tommy O'Connell, as insurance. Parilli was hurt, and O'Connell had to finish out the season. They won five and lost seven.

That was the first time since the club was formed in 1946 that they hadn't won at least a divisional title. Now this year they've won the eastern title again and will meet Detroit Sunday for the league championship.

The answer to the quick comeback lies partly in the rookies—nearly one-third of the squad—and partly in some changes the Browns made.

Paradoxically, their first game of the season was the tip-off to what was coming. Neither side got a touchdown, but Cleveland beat the New York Giants 6-3 on Lou Groza's field goals, the last one as the game ended.

"The defense and Groza carried us through the early part of the season, until the offense jelled," says coach Paul Brown.

Before the season started the Browns had lopped off some veterans—"old players who no longer could pay the price to win," as Brown puts it.

Preston Carpenter, in 1956 a rookie halfback who carried the ball—literally—for most of the club's ground offense, was converted into offensive right end to replace Dante Lavelli, who had retired; and Carpenter became a good one.

Bob Gain, who in 1956 had to jump around in three different defensive positions, settled down at tackle and steadied the line.

When Brown couldn't rebuild with rookies, he rebuilt with recent acquisitions. After drafting last for years, he got some good material from last year's draft choices.

Jim Brown, the rookie fullback from Syracuse, won first place in the league this year for ground gaining.

O'Connell, in his first full year, had the league's best average gain at passing, and rookie Milt Plum developed into such a sharp passer and runner at the end of the season that the coach doesn't worry who starts at quarterback.

Rookie Fred Robinson and sophomore Jim Ray Smith became the guard-messengers, and center Art Hunter, who had one year's experience at Green Bay, took over at offensive center.

As a running back—paired with Ray (Long Shot) Renfro as flanker back—the Browns acquired Lew Carpenter from the Lions, which helped free brother Preston Carpenter for end.

Defensively: Rookie Vince Costello is a first string linebacker, and rookie Bill Quinlan has the left end job.

"An unprecedented number of rookies have come through," says Brown.

Reports of floods and famine in central and west Java poured into Jakarta today as an aftermath of heavy rains. No casualties were reported.

Cause of the food shortage was not given, but presumably it resulted from crop failures.

Michigan State Team To Beat

Spartans Roll To 5th Straight Victory

By The Associated Press
The Big Ten basketball campaign doesn't begin for another 11 days but Michigan State's defending co-champions have established themselves as the team to beat.

The Spartans rolled to their fifth straight victory Monday night, ouping Iowa State, 57-51 in an overtime at Ames, Iowa, to remain the only undefeated Big Ten team this season.

Meanwhile, the two teams that were rated alongside Michigan State as top contenders—Indiana's co-champions and Ohio State—again fell by the wayside.

Indiana, playing on its home court, suffered a 63-51 defeat against Oregon State and winless straight to Oklahoma, 64-55, at Norman.

While the Spartans have yet to lose and are ranked 31th nationally, Indiana and Ohio State have a combined total of one victory against nine losses against non-conference foes.

Michigan State, trailing by two points at halftime, overcame a six-point Cyclone second half lead to go ahead 41-39 only to see Iowa State tie the count at 50-all in regulation play. In the overtime, Larry Hedden snapped the tie with a layup and Jack Quiggle scored two more baskets to ice the contest. Quiggle led the Spartans with 19 points.

Archie Dees pumped in 25 points but got little help from his Indiana teammates as the Hoosiers stumbled to their fourth loss in five games. The two teams were tied 31-all at intermission but Dees, who had scored 18 points in the first half, cooled off while Ken Nanson paced Oregon State to victory. Nanson scored 26 points.

Ohio State, playing spotty in the first half by failing to score from the field in the first seven and last six minutes of the period, managed to pull into a 31-31 tie in the second half only to see the Sooners pull out in front to stay.

Frank Howard topped Ohio State with 16 points while four Sooners, scored in double figures led by center Joe King with 19.

Gov. O'Neill Still Silent

GOP Candidate Slate For Top State Offices Nearly Complete

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Republican slate of candidates for top state offices in the May primary election is, for all practical purposes, complete today.

Gov. C. William O'Neill is the only one who hasn't declared himself a candidate, but there is about as much uncertainty of his intentions as there is about a calendar.

Some nominal opposition faces veteran office holders. U.S. Sen. John W. Bricker, who announced Monday that he will seek his third consecutive term, is opposed by Charles A. McCarthy of Cincinnati. O'Neill, expected to make his announcement early next year, faces a primary race for the gubernatorial nomination against Alvin L. Spriggs of Mount Gilead, a former justice of the peace.

Republican candidates for lieutenant governor are incumbent Paul Herbert, seeking a sixth term, and Dr. Joseph M. Centanni of Cleveland Heights. Republican incumbents unopposed for other posts are Secretary of State Ted W. Brown, Treasurer Roger W. Tracy, Atty. Gen. William Saxbe and State Supreme Court Judge James G. Stewart of Cincinnati for the Jan. 2 term. Willard D. Campbell, former Guernsey County judge, prosecutor and legislator, is unopposed for the Jan. 1 term on the Supreme Court.

On the Democratic side, 14 candidates have filed petitions or declared their candidacy for the Nov. 4 election.

Five Democrats have already announced for the gubernatorial nomination. They are Columbus mayor Maynard E. Sensenbrenner; Cleveland mayor Anthony J. Celebrezze; Albert S. Porter of Cleveland, Cuyahoga County engineer; Mrs. Vivienne Suarez, Columbus housewife, and Robert W. Arndts of West Alexandria, Preble County, an Ohio resident who ran for governor and U.S. senator in Nebraska in the 1940s.

Stephen M. Young of Cleveland is the only announced candidate thus far for the U.S. Senate.

Democratic candidates for lieutenant governor are Roy Hopple, Columbus attorney; Edward P. Lenny, mayor of Niles; Albert T. Ball of Cleveland, unsuccessful candidate for state senator last year; Joseph H. Avellone of Cleveland, former state legislator, and Charles B. Hubbell of Cleveland, unsuccessful in previous bids for a variety of offices.

Joseph Zingales of Warrensville Heights has announced for the Democratic nomination for state treasurer and Judge Charles B. Zimmerman of the State Supreme Court has declared for re-election for the Jan. 1 term. Merrill Brothers of Columbus, former unsuccessful candidate for judge, has announced for the state term on the bench.

Democrats still lack an announced candidate for secretary of state.

Sentences Of Three Prisoners Commuted

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Gov. C. William O'Neill Monday commuted to second degree murder the convictions of three prisoners who have served more than 25 years on life sentences for first degree murder.

The action makes them eligible for parole consideration. The three are:

Alex Maynor, 74, involved with an accomplice in the shooting of a night watchman March 1, 1927, at the Midland Steel Co., Cleveland, during a burglary. Maynor, in Ohio Penitentiary, has been a trusty for 15 years.

Mike Gluich, 63, convicted in 1925 for killing his landlord in Mahoning County. A federal warrant for deportation is outstanding against him in the event he is paroled from the London Prison Farm.

William Gibbons, 48, London Prison Farm, convicted with an accomplice of killing Henry Gay in a robbery at Cannelville, Muskingum County, March 7, 1911.

East Liverpool Man Files $50,000 Suit

LISBON — A suit for $50,000 for personal injuries allegedly stemming from an auto accident was filed in Common Pleas Court Monday by Aulta Langdon of East Liverpool.

Joseph Dornan of N. Kenova, W. Va., was named the defendant. Langdon claims he was hurt when the car in which he was a passenger, driven by Dornan on Rt. 30, north of East Liverpool, collided with another auto June 7, 1956. Langdon claims Dornan was intoxicated and was driving on the left side of the road. Langdon's petition asserts he didn't know Dornan was intoxicated until after he was in the car, and that Dornan refused to stop and let him out of the car.

The Christmas Story

ND it came to pass in those days, that there went out a decree from Caesar Augustus, that all the world would be taxed.

And all went to be taxed, everyone into his own city.

And Joseph also went up from Galilee . . . unto the city of David, which is called Bethlehem . . . to be taxed with Mary his espoused wife . . .

And so it was, that while they were there . . . she brought forth her first-born son, and wrapped him in swaddling clothes, and laid him in a manger; because there was no room for them in the inn.

And there were in the same country, shepherds abiding in the field keeping watch over their flock by night.

And, lo, the angel of the Lord came upon them, and the glory of the Lord shone round about them: and they were sore afraid.

And the angel said unto them, "Fear not: for, behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy . . .

"For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord.

"And this shall be a sign unto you; Ye shall find the babe wrapped in swaddling clothes, lying in a manger."

And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host praising God, and saying,

"Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men."

And it came to pass, as the angels were gone away from them into heaven, the shepherds said one to another, "Let us go even unto Bethlehem, and see this thing which is come to pass, which the Lord hath made known to us."

And they came with haste, and found Mary, and Joseph, and the babe lying in a manger.

There came wise men from the east to Jerusalem . . .

And, lo, the star which they saw in the East, went before them, till it came and stood over where the young child was.

When they saw the star, they rejoiced with exceeding great joy.

And when they were come into the house, they saw the young child with Mary his mother, and fell down, and worshipped him: and when they had opened their treasures, they presented him with gifts; gold, and frankincense, and myrrh.

American Housewives Express Desire For Larger Kitchens

Women want larger kitchens. That's what a panel of homemakers, carefully chosen to represent a cross section of American housewives, declared at a conference sponsored by a leading national magazine.

In particular, these women complained their kitchens lack adequate storage space and counter work area.

This confirms the findings of steel kitchen makers, whose surveys have shown consistently that these two factors are the major reasons why so many kitchens are work makers instead of work savers.

While complete remodeling, following carefully worked out plans, is the real solution to the problem, the realistic steel kitchen people recognize that not every homemaker can afford this solution. So they have come up with some alternate solutions, keeping cost first in mind.

These suggestions are made:

1. Tackle the problem "piecemeal." Probably the sink area would come first, because so much kitchen work is centered here, and both storage space and working area is a necessity. An up-to-date cabinet sink and one or more adjacent storage cabinets will work wonders.

2. Consider adding base cabinets which furnish both storage and work space, wherever space permits in the kitchen room. Steel base cabinets are completely finished units that can be handled just like a piece of furniture.

3. Take inventory of your kitchen tools — pots, pans and dishes — and also storage of canned goods and other staple food items. Perhaps infrequently used items can be stored temporarily in modern steel storage cabinets in a pantry or another room. Later, when the kitchen is further remodeled, these cabinets can be transferred to the kitchen.

EDUCATIONAL LEVEL UP—Figures recently released by the Census Bureau survey show that the educational standard of the American worker continued to advance during the past five years. The percentage of college graduates set Newchart, among workers aged 18 to 64, reached a new high.

WHITE TREE CHRISTMAS

This is a section of Santa's Village. His workshop is the building in the center.

IN THE spirit of "Woodman, spare that tree," Cliff Hawkins saves many trees in forests by building spectacular Christmas trees for displays throughout the world. Cliff and his company, located in Glendora, Calif., create and ship more than six thousand Christmas tree displays made from manzanita wood and rayon fiber. Most of his trees are made for leading department stores. Not only Americans, but German, Japanese, British and other overseas patrons keep Hawkins and his firm busy throughout the year. The plant has the Christmas atmosphere with a herd of Alaskan reindeer on the grounds. Another attraction is a Santa Village with elfin-like shops that look as if they were lifted from story books. There is a chapel, with an organ, for Christmas programs. The trees are sandblasted, then a white rayon fiber—the "snow"—is put on with spray guns.

The "snow" on this artificial tree won't ever melt.

Baby Rudolph, the reindeer, is watched over by his mother, Dancer, near the plant.

Doctor, Engineer, Psychologist Unite to Probe Accident Causes

U.S. Makes Study of Road Safety Picture

By JERRY BENNETT

The U. S. Bureau of Public Roads has launched a full scale highway safety investigation to curb the high death and injury rate caused by automobile crashes.

Several state, local and federal agencies are cooperating with BPR in the project. Safety experts hope that this extensive research operation will enable them to prescribe definite remedies for the auto-acclaimed 40,000 lives.

Northwestern University in Evanston, Ill., has been selected for one of the program's unique studies. In addition to the regular police investigations, a doctor, engineer, and social psychologist will start probing into every detail of highway smash-ups in the Chicago area to try to discover their exact causes.

The team of hand-picked experts will rush to the scene of nearby auto accidents. The doctor will check the physical condition of the victims. The engineer will hunt for unfavorable road conditions which could have contributed to the accident. And the social psychologist will probe into the background and psychological make-up of the persons involved.

Information gained from these studies will be examined to determine what basic human or mechanical failures trigger accidents. BPR officials estimate the Northwestern operation will take about eight years to complete.

Charles W. Prisk, BPR director of the highway safety program, explains: "The full understanding of driver behavior is the key to highway safety."

WHAT CAUSED IT? A doctor, engineer and psychologist are adding their efforts to the police probe of accidents like this as part of U.S. study of the highway safety picture.

Another group interested in this field is the research subcommittee of the President's Committee on Traffic Safety. These highly skilled experts act as official consultants to the BPR on the safety program.

A second important BPR research activity is aimed at uncovering accident frequency. Although accident frequency, although speed often has been labeled as a hazard to safe driving, its exact contribution to the high accident rate is unknown.

ELEVEN STATE highway departments are conducting studies on selected stretches of highway which will show the accident rate of autos traveling at different speeds. The make, model and horsepower of the cars involved plus the age and sex of the drivers also will be studied.

Another part of the broad safety program emphasizes development of new and improved highway construction techniques and road safety devices. For example, safety experts are testing different colored road signs to find out which one is the easiest to read. They also are trying to learn if reflector or painted signs show up better at night.

And an electronic sign has been developed which flashes a warning when cars traveling on a free-way are threatened by merging traffic.

OTHER STUDIES include one to determine the extent of human suffering in the United States resulting from car wrecks. The Department of Health, Education and Welfare is cooperating with BPR on this research. Also several state highway departments are involved in a study of accident costs.

Congress provided for the numerous investigations last year in order to find out what federal action is needed to help stop the enormous amount of death and destruction on the nation's highways.

Welsh Rarebit Adds Gaiety

At the witching hour when 1958 comes over the line, with family and congenial friends around you, toast the New Year with hope and courage.

And don't overlook the importance of a New Year's Eve buffet — simple of course, but satisfying and appropriate. You may want to spell out "Happy New Year" on the table with confetti or cutouts, or else attach glitter-sprayed metal numerals to candles with the magic combination "1958."

A Welsh rarebit made in a chafing dish — bubbly, flavorful and substantial — served on hot toast, a refreshing salad bowl, cold drinks and then later coffee plus cake if to a good start.

Welsh Rarebit
One tablespoon butter, 1 pound Cheddar cheese, grated (4 cups), 1/2 cup ale or beer or milk, 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, 1/2 teaspoon dry mustard, 1/4 teaspoon hot pepper sauce, salt to taste.

Melt butter and cheese in double boiler or chafing dish over hot, not boiling, water. As cheese begins to melt, gradually stir in ale or beer, or milk. Cook only until smooth and hot. Stir in seasonings. If desired, sprinkle with paprika. Serve with hot toast points.

Buffet Salad Bowl
One grapefruit, 1 avocado, 6 stalks endive, 1 half head escarole or other salad greens, French dressing.

To section grapefruit, cut off peel in strips from top to bottom, cutting deep enough to remove white membrane. Cut along side of each, dividing membrane from outside to middle of core. Remove section by section over bowl to retain juice. Peel and cut avocados in wedges. Cut stalks of endive quarters. To arrange in salad bowl, make separate piles of grapefruit sections, avocado wedges, endive and escarole to form colorful pattern. Serve with French dressing.

Science May Evolve Perfect Girl In '58

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Beauty Editor

In 1958 we may be one year closer to looking like our next-door neighbor. Is that good? If we could stick around until the year 2500, we'd find out if the quote attributed to Tokyo educator Dr. Vibul Thamavit comes true — "Everyone in the world will look alike" 600 or so years from now. Women would not complain today, perhaps, if every man in the world resembled Charles Boyer, Clark Gable, John Wayne or Cary Grant, monotonous as it could become. But what if the trend to an appearance of a disliked friend or relative should rear its ugly head? Horrors! Mirror breaking would be ear shattering.

WHAT ABOUT THE female of the species? There are some indications that women are beginning to look alike. They dye their hair in conforming shades, some use the same makeup. But no woman wants to be found dead looking like any other woman.

You can't get women to agree on anything, anyway, much less in the matter of beauty and fashion. Sometimes they follow fashion blindly, sometimes they disagree violently, as witness the 1957 slipcover for the female carcass — the gunnysack. Some do, some don't like it.

Men may hope that the female looks trend takes a Marilyn Monroe turn, although it could become too much of a good thing, like Mom's apple pie. Then too, by that time, we may have Martian ladies making inroads on sex appeal standards of Earth men. Who knows — we may find our men really like four-lipped girls. Or maybe Martian ladies will be the silent, button-lipped type American men have admired through the years — greater competition no Earthly lady could have.

THE SUSPICION is that men will control this looks and image ideal. Male scientists running rampant with slide rule and advanced calculus in their nogginns may classify us by type. Dark haired, long nosed, small mouth types, may be XYZ's who may marry only dark, haired, short nosed, large mouth types, classified XNS. These types may marry, and their offspring will become YNS, perhaps the ideal type. Or if scientists prefer blondes when we get on this look-alike kick, two brunettes may not be able to meet under an apple tree without a license. That way we could all wind up looking alike in no time at all.

IF THEY'RE GOING to get this thing working right, they'll have to discourage us about our looks—a motivation research plan of sorts with every youngster so bored being the wrong type that by age 16 he is ready to be talked into the standard look. After 25, when one has admired his mirror portrait for so long, changing face may require a difficult selling job. TV will rise to the challenge, no doubt, with daily encouraging reminders that we must not waste time. "Are your eyes still too far apart? Gain the lovely one-inch span between the eyes that is one indication of the coming Ideal Era of feminine beauty by using our head squeezer twice a day, available in a handy little tube that may be carried in the purse to picnics, bridge parties, luncheons and PTA meetings. The first million people who send us their order will receive free, at no extra charge, our super lip widener, nose shortener, and head shrinker, guaranteed not to fade, rot or become mildewed."

Guarding Your Health

By DR. EDWIN P. JORDAN

Diabetes and Its Treatment

Only about 30 years ago almost all victims of severe diabetes either died of the disease or from complications, most of which at that time could not be prevented. Today, thanks to the discovery of insulin and better knowledge of how to treat the disease, the outlook is much better.

But there are still problems. There are believed to be nearly a million people with diabetes who do not know they have it, and therefore are not receiving the benefits of modern treatment.

Furthermore, human nature being what it is, there are far too many diabetic patients who do not follow directions and are foolishly taking chances with their lives.

Diabetes is a curious disease. Heredity and excess fat play a part in its development, but the exact cause still remains to be discovered.

The place where the trouble originates is in the pancreas, which is a small gland lying in the upper portion of the abdomen. This gland, among other functions, normally produces a hormone which is emptied into the blood and is known as insulin.

Insulin is necessary to enable the tissues to burn and use sugar. If it is absent or deficient in quantity, some of the sugar will spill over into the urine. In diabetes the body thus does not get enough nourishment and wasting may occur if it does too long unchecked.

The principal aim of the attack on diabetes is to improve the use of the sugar and prevent its wastage through the urine. One method of doing this is by eating foods which do not contain much starches or sugars. In mild cases this may be enough.

It should be mentioned, too, that the severity of the diabetes may change from time to time so that it is necessary to alter the treatment. Also, a diet which is satisfactory at one time may have to be changed later.

A.C. asks that is the best thing to do for diabetes other than diet. She says that it has been discovered that she has it in a mild form and that tests of the urine show sugar at one time and not another. She adds that she is 75.

In answer it must be pointed out that no two victims of diabetes should be treated exactly alike.

In addition to tests of the urine, she should have tests made of the amount of sugar in the blood. If the sugar can be controlled by diet alone that is fine. If insulin is necessary, too, it should be taken, since the important feature of treatment is to control the sugar whether the patient is old or young, or whether the disease is mild or severe.

The nine planets in the solar system are: Mercury, Venus, Earth, Mars, Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus, Neptune and Pluto.

Milk Dealers Reject Farmers' Demand

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Associated Milk Dealers of Cleveland Monday rejected a demand for higher milk prices by a farmers' group which struck last August to enforce similar demands.

The Ohio Dairy Farmers Bargaining Assn. has asked $6 a hundredweight for fluid milk, effective Jan. 1 and continuing until July 1.

The present negotiated price of milk in the Cleveland market—$5.52 a hundredweight—expires Dec. 31 and probably will be reduced slightly, Henry W. Ingersoll, secretary of the dealers' association, said. A rise of one cent a quart in the cost of retail milk followed negotiation of the $5.52 price.

Anticipating a possible strike in early 1938, the dairymen Monday asked the U. S. Department of Agriculture to suspend price penalties under the federal milk marketing order on milk imported into the Cleveland market. Imported milk would avert any shortage if producers withheld their milk from market as they did in the brief August strike.

The cutback, announced Monday by the firm, which claims its dinnerware plant is the largest in the world, necessitated furloughing about 10 per cent of the firm's 1,800 employees. Others are working on reduced schedules.

REDUCES OPERATIONS

EAST LIVERPOOL, Ohio (AP)—The Homer Laughlin China Co. has reduced operations to 45 per cent because of a decline in demand.

4,000 Men Self-Sufficient On Giant Aircraft Carrier

USS Forrestal Is a Noisy, Floating 'City'

By LTON C. FAY

The Captain and executive officer of the 60,000-ton USS Forrestal are administrators of the biggest, busiest and noisiest "city" afloat. Almost 4,000 men live and work in this sea-going city.

Everything for living, entirely cut off from land, is at hand on the supercarrier... stores which sell everything from cashmere sweaters and jewelry to soap and cigarettes... a library... a hobby shop... places for church services of all faiths... a dozen different movies every night.

On this ship, the men responsible — the "mayor" and his principal aide — are Capt. Richard L. Kibbe, native of Sullivan, Ill., and his executive, Cmdr. George C. Duncan of Arlington, Va. The captain almost never leaves the area of the bridge while the Forrestal is at sea. The "exec" divides his time between the bridge and the multitude of big and little problems of "Forrestal City."

All hands — the officers and the men — live at sea in a constant world of clamor, of noise and hurrying that would mean sleeplessness for any but those hardened to the life. Except for the Forrestal's experienced crew and airmen, a night operation is a nightmare.

Elevators rumble up to the flight deck, carrying aircraft. The night is pitch black until the eye adjusts and can detect black shapes moving about against a blacker background. Here and there the glowing red eye of an electric torch flashes briefly. Air crews come topside, swathed in immersion suits, belted, life jackets buckled on, carrying notebook knee pads.

boards. They climb up into cockpits. From high aloft, the "bulbhorn" bellows commands into the dark. Jet engines start. They whine first, then scream as the planes taxi to position over the steam-powered launching catapults. Flight deck men, with the eyes and nimbleness of cats, scurry in the black night, dodging jet blasts, crawling under fuselages, hooking up the plane to the catapult. Up near the top of the "island" structure, the men in the control room watch, give the signal. The minute for launching is at hand. Down on the right hand side of the waiting jet an officer waves an electrically illuminated wand in a tight circle, telling the pilot to run up his engine to full power. The jet's scream grows deafening. The aircraft, still held in leash, shakes, even the stout steel flight deck. Hot, blue flame streaks from the tailpipe. Suddenly, the officer crouches, points his wand to the end of the flight deck. The catapult snaps the multi-ton plane into flying speed in three hundred feet of run, hurling it out beyond the end of the deck. Almost instantly the aircraft flashes from sight into the night. And another follows hard on its heels. The mission is off.

Mrs. Hauer President Of Church Class

WASHINGTONVILLE — The Friendship class of the Lutheran Church met Friday evening with a casserole dinner. Election of officers was held at the business session. Those named were Mrs. Vera Hauer, president; Mrs. Louis Stouffer, vice president; Mrs. Edward Davis, secretary and Mrs. Emmet Brudery, treasurer.

An exchange of Christmas gifts was enjoyed, secret pals were revealed and new ones drawn for next year. The class will meet again Jan. 10, 1958.
